JAPAN	Negotiating Directives adopted on 29 November 2012	On 6 July 2017, the EU and Japan reached an agreement in principle on the main elements of an Economic Partnership Agreement at the EU-Japan summit. The EPA removes the vast majority of duties paid by EU companies, which sum up to €1 billion annually, opens the Japanese market to key EU agricultural exports and increases opportunities in a range of sectors. It sets the highest standards of labour, safety, environmental and consumer protection, data protection, fully safeguards public services and has a dedicated chapter on sustainable development. For the first time, an agreement includes a specific commitment to the Paris climate change.	For some chapters negotiations are still ongoing, such as on investment protection. The EU has put its reformed Investment Court System on the table and work towards the setting up of a Multilateral Investment Court. Other areas also require further work, such as the regulatory cooperation and the general and institutional chapters. Based on the agreement in principle from 6 July 2017, negotiators will continue to work on the remaining technical issues hoping to conclude a final text by the end of 2017. Only then will the Commission proceed to the legal verification and translation of the agreement into all EU official languages, and will consequently submit it for the approval of EU Member States and the European Parliament.

However, the most difficult issues remain to be resolved.	In 2016, a stocktaking exercise took place was initiated to assess the prospect to resume negotiations. Ministers are currently analysing the results of this stocktaking exercise with a view to re-launching the negotiations in due course. Preparations to ensure swift practical implementation of this FTA are on-going.

Discussions have resumed since January 2016 with the purpose of assessing whether sufficient progress can be made in key outstanding issues before formally resuming negotiations.
