

European Commission

Transatlantic Trade & Investment Partnership (TTIP) Advisory Group

Member information

---

Date: 5/09/2016

Trade

Edward Bowles

Mr Bowles is the Regional Head of Corporate and Public Affairs, Europe at Standard Chartered Bank, where he has held a number of roles since 2007. He is also a member of a number of European financial services' industry association committees, covering international regulatory issues and trade negotiations. Prior to this, he was a UK civil servant at the Ministry of Justice, where he served as Private Secretary to the Permanent Secretary and to two Ministers, and as Head of Human Rights Policy. He also spent eight years in the UK Crown Prosecution Service as a barrister, and was a member of the General Council of the Bar for seven years. His academic background is in law and business administration.

Benedicte Federspiel

Ms Federspiel has spent more than forty years working on consumer affairs, both in Denmark, Europe and internationally. After having been the Executive Director of the Danish Consumer Council for many years, during which she also held important positions internationally, she now mainly concentrates on legal matters, ministerial committees, standardisation and Nordic, European and international consumer policy work in the Consumer Council. Benedicte Federspiel is a Danish member of the Social and Economic Committee of the EU and holds a number of important positions in the European and international consumer political scene, among them member of the European Consumer Consultative Group of the European Commission (ECCG) and member of the European Board of the TransAtlantic Consumer Dialogue (TACD). Benedicte Federspiel was for a long time President - and is now Treasurer – of ANEC, the European organisation for Consumer Representation in Standardisation and Certification. Her academic background is in law.

Mella Frewen

Ms Frewen has been Director-General of FoodDrinkEurope, representing Europe's largest manufacturing industry, since July 2007. Her previous positions include roles at Monsanto, dealing with agricultural biotechnology, conventional agriculture and agri-chemistry, and at Eridania Béghin-Say, Gruppo Ferruzzi. She has a wide experience of relations with relevant international and EU institutions, and trade associations within the food chain, as well as with the agricultural and chemical sectors. She is currently a member of the EU Commission's High Level Steering Board for the European Innovation Partnership for Agricultural Productivity and Sustainability, and member of several other food-industry related Boards. Ms Frewen is Chair of the ACEI (the Alliance for a Competitive European Industry) and Vice President of the OECD's Advisory Group for Responsible Business Conduct along Agricultural Supply Chains. Her academic background is in science and international management.

Monique Goyens

Ms Goyens is currently Director General of the BEUC, the European Consumers' Organisation. She is also co-chair of the Transatlantic Consumer Dialogue, a network of EU and US consumer organisations. Her previous experience includes ten years managing the Commission Universitaire pour le Développement, an organisation building links between Belgian francophone universities and their counterparts in the developing world. Her academic background is in law.

Ivan Hodac

Mr Hodac is former Secretary General of ACEA, the European Automobile Manufacturers' Association. In total he has almost thirty years' experience of senior representation and policy analysis for business associations and multinational companies in a variety of industries in Europe. He previously undertook similar roles for the European office of Time Warner and for the International Federation of Margarine Associations. His academic background, including as an assistant at the College of Europe, ranges from mechanical engineering to European economic studies.

Tom Jenkins

Mr Jenkins is the Senior Advisor to the General Secretary of the European Trade Union Confederation. He is currently co-chair of the Civil Society Forum set up under the EU-Korea FTA, and chair of its Domestic Advisory Group. His experience in the trade union field began in 1973 when he joined the Trades Union Congress in the UK. His roles have included a secondment to the Foreign & Commonwealth Office and the presidency of the European Economic and Social Committee.

Pascal Kerneis

Mr Kerneis is the Managing Director of the European Services Forum. He has held a number of advisory roles in EU trade policy, including on the Civil Society Forum of the EU-Korea FTA and in DG Trade's Contact Group. His previous experience includes nearly ten years working on international affairs for the European Banking Federation, and as a legal expert for the European Commission. His academic background is in European law.

Susanne Løgstrup

Ms Løgstrup is Director of the European Heart Network (EHN). EHN is a Brussels-based alliance of heart and stroke organisations in Europe. Ms Løgstrup represents EHN, the European Commission-led Platform for Action on Diet, Physical Activity and Health. She is a Board member of the Smoke Free Partnership (SFP) and a member of the Steering Committee of the European Chronic Disease Alliance (ECDA). In her personal capacity, Ms Løgstrup is a member of the Stakeholder Dialogue Group. Previously, Ms Løgstrup was an Attorney-at-law in Copenhagen and Paris. Her academic background is in law and business administration. She is a Fellow of the European Society of Cardiology (FESC).

Guido Nelissen

Mr Nelissen is economic advisor to the Industriall European Trade Union. Industriall represents 7.1 million workers of nearly 200 European trade unions in industry. Prior to this, he was economic advisor to the metals branch of the Belgian trade union ACV-CSC. Guido has longstanding experience in industrial policy, macro-economic policies and financial analysis. His academic background is in economics and business finance.

Ilja Nothnagel

Dr Nothnagel is Managing Director for International Economic Policy at the Association of German Chambers of Commerce and Industry (DIHK). DIHK is a member of EUROCHAMBRES, the Association of European Chambers of Commerce and Industry, representing 20 million European companies, 93% of which are SMEs. Dr Nothnagel coordinates DIHK's activities in the areas of Trade Policy, Transatlantic Relations and Foreign Economic Policy. The special focus of these initiatives is making trade work for small and medium-sized enterprises. He joined DIHK in 2008, and held senior roles in the Foreign Trade section and as adviser to DIHK's President. His academic background is in economics.

Pekka Pesonen

Mr Pesonen is Secretary-General of COPA-COGECA, an agricultural lobby representing 70 national farm organisations in Europe. He previously worked for the Finnish Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry as state secretary. In addition, he has wide professional experience in the Finnish food industry and in working with the EU. Mr Pesonen's academic background is in agricultural economics.

Pieter de Pous

Mr de Pous is Policy Director for the European Environmental Bureau, where he has worked since 2005 covering areas including biodiversity and agriculture. Previously he worked for the WWF International Accession Initiative in Vienna as a consultant. His academic background is in forest and nature management, including wildlife conservation, and international administration.

Reinhard Quick

Mr Quick is the director of the European office of VCI, the German chemical industries association, and chairman of Businesseurope's working group on Free Trade Agreements and the World Trade Organisation. He has worked in these areas since 1984, when he first joined VCI as a Trade Policy Advisor in Frankfurt. In 2006 he was appointed honorary professor for international economic law at the University of Saarland in Saarbrücken where he teaches a course on trade and environment. His academic background is in law.

Nina Renshaw

Ms Renshaw is Secretary-General of the European Public Health Alliance (EPHA). With 97 member organisations, EPHA is Europe's leading NGO advocating for the protection and improvement of public health. EPHA's diverse membership includes health professionals, patient groups and disease-specific groups working together to strengthen the voice of health in all policies. EPHA calls for equitable solutions to health challenges, reduction of health inequalities and universal access to sustainable and high quality health systems. Prior to joining EPHA in 2014, Ms Renshaw's academic background in international business and political science led her to work in logistics and on sustainable transport policies. She has been a delegate to the World Health Organisation, the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe, and was a member of the European Commission's High-Level Group on red tape reduction.

Luisa Santos

Ms Santos is the Director for International Relations at Businesseurope. Her principal experience is in the textiles sector, having acted first as the chief representative for the Portuguese textile industry in Brussels, and later as Trade and Industry Manager for Euratex, the European Apparel and Textile Confederation. She was also the manager responsible for international partnerships – including a joint venture in India – for a leading Portuguese textiles company. Her academic background is in law and management.

Cécile Toubeau

Cécile has been with T&E since February 2012. She leads the T&E better trade and regulation team monitoring the Better Regulation agenda of the Juncker Commission, the development of the EU-Canada (CETA), EU-USA (TTIP) and, the global services (TiSA) agreements. Before joining T&E, Cécile worked as a consultant dealing with clients in the transport, energy and trade sectors at Cambre Associates, a public affairs agency in Brussels. She worked on the automotive chapter of the EU-South Korea free trade agreement for client Hyundai and on the subsequent safeguard clause. Half Belgian and half British, Cécile speaks both English and French fluently. She went to school in Brussels, and moved to London to study graphic design at Central Saint Martin followed by design theory at Goldsmiths. She then studied European law and economics at the Vrije Universiteit Brussel. She loves cooking and baking and frequently spoils the team with some of her freshly baked creations! Her other passions include reading, her family and training for triathlons.